

Building Safety Bill: what's new?

The Bill is back in the news, and there is new activity on our blog. We review the most recent government announcements about funding for cladding problems for medium high buildings. We have a note on the progress of the Bill through the Commons Committee. There are many other articles you may find of interest, including an article on what Australia is doing; and an article on the definition of high risk buildings. For more details on what we've reviewed, click below.

What's new