

Tech Disputes Network webinar: IT project disputes and how to run a project failure claim

Software development, implementation and transformation projects give rise to some of the most complex disputes in the tech space.

Join Matthew Lavy and Gideon Shirazi for the next online event with the Tech Disputes Network where experienced panellists will answer some of the big questions about these projects and related disputes.

Topics that will be covered include:

- How to see the wood from the trees in the vast numbers of breaches
- When software is defective, and when it is just buggy
- How to put together a project failure claim
- How to deal with quantum
- What key documents you need to get early on
- How to get the best from your experts
- How to manage the vast number of documents in the claim
- What you need to evidence your claim

Register online now