

The Bar Council English Law Summit in Nursultan, Kazakhstan

Andrew Stevens will speak at The Bar Council's English Law Summit in Nursultan on 10th April 2019.

The summit will bring together leading experts from the UK and Kazakhstan to discuss the latest legal developments in English law and the benefits of English law to businesses. The summit will also promote legal and business links between practitioners from both countries. Andrew has experience of acting for Kazakh clients in arbitration and disputes applying Kazakh law.

Topics include:

- Recent updates and developments in English law
- Effective use of soft skills in international arbitration
- A case study of a claim in England involving Kazakhstani parties
- Foreign direct investment – successes and challenges
